CASCADE RIVER STATE PARK is located in Cook County, nine miles southwest of Grand Marais. Follow Highway 61 northeast out of Tofte, 21 miles. The park entrance is at mile marker 101. Highway map index: Q-7.

Cascade River State Park, 2,865 acres along Lake Superior, contains a diversity of settings; the beautiful Cascade River, Indian

Camp, Spruce, and Cutface Creeks; and the rugged Lake Superior shoreline. Park trails lead the park visitor from Lake Superior up to the height of the Sawtooth Mountains and their panoramic view of the North Shore.

WILDLIFE:

Cascade River State Park has many features which are attractive to wildlife. Here in this large forested area deer seek protection from cold temperatures and wind. Wolves, bear, pine marten, fox and many other animals make the park their year-round home.

The area along the North Shore has excellent populations of a variety of song birds and hawks. The best time to find them is from mid-May to mid-July when they are nesting.

GEOLOGY:

The geology of the North Shore and the Cascade River is complex. It started billions of years ago when the ancient bedrock was covered with molten lava from volcanos. Later, shallow seas covered the area and deposited sediment over the lava beds.

The sedimentary rock formed from the seas was bent by great mountain building forces. Other complex geological processes took place before the glaciers scoured the area several times leaving the present Lake Superior basin.

HISTORY:

Years ago, the Civilian Conservation Corps had a camp at the Cascade River. The men in this camp worked on a variety of conservation projects. Today, you can see some of their handiwork on the trails that wind along the river.
